Tweed's Check

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—After being taken to Blackwell's Island yesterday, Tweed was asked the usual questions by the Receiving Clerk, to which he answered that he was aged 50; occupation, statesman; in religion, but as his family are Protestants, he was entered as a Protestant. He was taken to a bath, his head shaved and his beard taken off, and was then arrayed in the full striped uniform. He had two letters from New York city physicians recommending that he be placed in the hospital, but after examination by the penitentiary physicians he was remanded to a common cell like other felons. The jacket given him is what is known in the penitentiary as the larceny jacket. His son stayed with him till he was led away to his cell, when he and a few friends and reporters left the island.

Return of the Epizootic.

It is reported that epizooty has appeared again on the horses of the car and stage routes.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

An Awful Calamity—The Steamship Ville de Havre Sunk in Mid-Ocean—Two Hundred and Seventy-Six Lives Lost.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The steamship Tre Mountain from New York arrived at Cardiff early this morning with the intelligence of a dreadful disaster to the steamship Ville de Havre, which left New York November 15th for Havre in command of Captain Surmont. At 2 o'clock on the morning of the 22d the Ville de Havre came in collision with the British ship [illegible] from London for New York, and sank. Two hundred and seventy six of the passengers of the Ville de Havre were lost. The Tre Mountain saved eight and brought them to Cardiff.

Among the passengers per steamship Ville de Havre, sunk at sea on the 22d of November, was Andrew W. McCreery, also several returning members of the Evangelical Alliance. McCreery was saved and also a son of Wally, of the Brevoort House, New York. His sister was lost.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The following additional particulars of the loss of the Ville de Havre have been received: [illegible] of the crew were saved including the Captain, and these go to make up the 87 saved. Among the passengers saved are 10 women. The saved are as follows: Capt. Surmont, 5 other officers, 54 of the crew and 27 passengers. The latter are named Mary Hunter, Annie Hunter, Helen F. Mixter, Madeline Mixter, Emile Cook, Rev. N. Weiss, Mrs. H. G. Spofford, James Bishop, Charles [illegible], Misses Bredin of San Francisco, Dado Hyppolite, Vatis, B. A. Welcher, Jr., F. [illegible], Fanule Blinninger, Alfred Barbazon, Xavier Penguing, [illegible] and Mr. Laurain, C. Burritt Waite, Cornelius [illegible], Mrs. Marie Bulkley, William B. Swift and wife, Andrew B. McCreery, Mr. Crasner, Henry Belknap and probably Bangrand.

Bombardment of Cartagena.

LONDON, Dec. 1—1 A. M.—Special dispatches to the morning papers report that the bombardment of Cartagena was continued on Saturday. There is great distress among non combatants, who have taken refuge in the suburbs. The city is filled with wounded. Seventeen houses and the principal hospital have been destroyed. The Government fleet remains inactive outside of the harbor.

An English Opinion.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The Daily Telegraph says it would be possible to regard the Virginius difficulty as approaching termination, [illegible] the [illegible] language used by President Grant on the subject in his Message to Congress is known.

The Ashantee War.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—A dispatch from Cape Coast Castle reports another engagement with the Ashantees near Dutfest, in which forty English and native auxiliaries were killed or wounded. The Ashantees boldly attacked the British position at Abbra Crampa, but were driven off after an hour's fight with a loss of thirty. The British were protected by field works. Their loss is trifling.

A New French Minister to the United States.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—It is reported that the post of Minister at Washington has been tendered to M. Fournier. Marquis de Noailles will probably be transferred to Rome if the change be made in the legation at Washington.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—This morning a disastrous fire occurred on Pacific street, between Front and Davis, by which the Atlantic Hotel was destroyed. Loss about $15,000. Several families in the hotel lost all their goods. Harris & Lewis' barber shop and Coughlan's saddlery store adjoining were also burned. Loss about $1,000. Three men were missing after the fire; one, supposed to be Charles Allen, was found dead in the ruins of the hotel. The others, names unknown, have not yet been found.

The city officials newly elected assumed their duties to-day. A large crowd of interested expectants and crest fallen outgoers are at the City Hall.

Heavy rains last night—clear to-day.

Greenbacks unchanged.

The ship Cultivator, from New York, was towed into port to-day by the United States revenue cutter Oliver Wolcott. The entire crew, officers, captain and captain's wife are down with the scurvy. Several of the former are lying at the point of death. This is the vessel which was furnished with fresh provisions at sea by the captain of the British bark Magna Charta. The cutter found her 15 miles west of the Farralones.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The new Board of Supervisors was organized to-night. None of the new members made any pledges beyond saying that they would at all times endeavor to subserve the best interests of the city and county. Ex Mayor Alvord and Mayor Otis occupied the Chair. After all the members had been installed, Mr. Alvord proceeded to read his valedictory, reviewing the course of municipal legislation during his term and recommending a policy of rigid economy for the future.

Tom McClellan, the jockey, who drove Romeo Thanksgiving Day, denies that he has been or is to be tried for selling out the race.

All the newly elected city officials assumed duties to-day.

The Board of Fire Commissioners elected David Scannel Chief of the Fire Department.

The entire loss by the fire this morning is about $30,000.

The Board of Education held a meeting to-day and elected H. J. Tilden President.

Ex Governor Haight publishes a long letter to-night declining the candidacy for the U. S. Senate.

Both Senate and House adjourned to-day without effecting an organization.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Thus far the new city officials have made but few changes in the offices of which they took possession. It is probable that many will be made, but the process of removal will be gradual. It is thought that Chief Cockrell will maintain the detective force about as it is now constituted, and in some of the heads of departments will make no changes whatever.

The banquet of the St. Andrews Society, at the Lick House, to-night is well attended.

A Chinaman was arrested on the steamer Great Republic to-day on suspicion of being the murderer of Dr. Lung Ah Chuck. It was afterwards ascertained that he had no part in the murder and was accordingly released.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The California Senate met at noon to-day, and adjourned till to-morrow. The Assembly met at the same hour and adjourned without day specified.

Ex-Governor Haight has published a letter declining to be a candidate for the United States Senate.

Interior California.

GILROY, Dec. 1.—At six o'clock yesterday morning, a large barn, situated on Monterey street, in the southern portion of the town and owned by Thos. Rea, was destroyed by fire. The entire contents, consisting of two coaches, two horses and about five or six thousand pounds of tobacco, was consumed. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. Loss, about $6,000 or $7,000. A reward of $3,000 has been offered by the citizens for the arrest of the incendiary. Mayor Howard also offers a reward of $500.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—A fire occurred yesterday at the house of a man named Kelly. Both man and wife have been arrested on suspicion of arson.

The municipal election passed off quietly to-day. The Councilmen elected were Mascorel, Huber, Sobichi, Chaves and Gherkins. A Board of Education and Assessors were also elected.

The Chamber of Commerce are making efforts to diffuse newspapers, pamphlets and circulars through the East showing the advantages of Southern California in products, climate, etc.

The Grangers will hold a high festival on the 4th of December. There are fourteen Granges in Los Angeles county, all of whom will be represented. Judge Thompson will deliver the oration to the Patrons.

Robbery of a Stage.

VISALIA, Dec. 1.—On Saturday night about 9 o'clock the stage running between here and the Tulare Railroad depot was stopped by masked highwaymen about one mile from this place, in the same spot it was robbed six weeks since. The officers were at once notified and started in pursuit. One man, supposed to be the ringleader, was captured about thirty miles from the scene of the robbery, having in his possession coin which was recognized as having been taken from Wells, Fargo & Co.'s treasure box. The stage driver recognizes him also as the party who stopped the stage six weeks ago.

NEVADA.

Terrible Tragedy.

LINCOLN, Nov. 30.—S. L. Hedge, aged 28, native of Oregon, had been stopping at the ranch of John Davis, and had attempted to induce Mrs. Davis to leave her husband a few days since and live with him. Davis succeeded, however, in making matters right with his wife, and a few days since gave Hedge a horse and outfit, with which he agreed to leave the country. This morning Hedge, in company with Davis' brother-in-law, Thos. Brown, returned, and after the exchange of a few words Hedge pulled out a revolver and shot Davis through the left arm. Davis had a double barreled shot gun in readiness, and in an instant fired at his antagonist, missing him. Hedge took shelter behind a wagon, but Davis let go a second charge of buck shot, which tore away the abdomen of Hedge, producing instant death. Hedge had hardly reached the ground when young Brown pulled a revolver and put a ball through his brother-in-law's brain, the ball entering above the left eye and passing entirely through the head. Brown mounted a horse and escaped.

UTAH.

From Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE, Dec. 1.—At Alta City last night the house of Madame Miller was destroyed by fire. In the smouldering ruins the remains of two human bodies have been discovered, believed to be Mad. Miller and Capt. Mat. Hart, a well known Union soldier. It is supposed that Hart, who lived with the woman, had a quarrel with and killed her, set fire to the [illegible] and then killed himself.

ARIZONA.

The Murderous Apaches Raiding on Sonora.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 1.—[illegible] will [illegible] the following from Tucson, Arizona [illegible]:

A [illegible] Arizona Apaches [illegible] raiding into [illegible] plunder and [illegible] are [illegible]. In the interest of [illegible] the Government of the United States should use its power to stop this slaughter of our peaceful neighbors. It is believed that Gen. Van Devereux, [illegible] official visit to the Cachise reservation, will make a report that will show how local agents blind the public with false reports and avoid thorough discipline for investigation of the conduct of the Apaches under their charge.

Santiago Denven arrived from Sonora yesterday in pursuit of 14 horses taken from the [illegible] and traced them to the Cachise reservation. He brought a letter from the Prefect, directed to the commanding officer of Camp Grant, asking assistance in getting the stock from that reserve.

The Apaches recently stole sixteen horses, which were traced to the Cachise reservation. Interested agents and others are upholding the Indians. An honest man [illegible] proves the people of Sonora to have suffered severely by the Cachise Indians intensely more than ever represented.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

The Weather Throughout the State.

OAKLAND, Dec. 1.—The weather is cold and disagreeable. About three inches of snow fell here in the last twenty four hours and it is still snowing.

ROSEBURG, Dec. 1.—At four o'clock this morning a heavy wind came up, followed by rain and snow, which continued till 10 o'clock. It is still showery and has the appearance of heavy rain. No great amount of rain has fallen as yet.

OREGON CITY, Dec. 1.—Snow to the depth of one and a half inches fell here last night.

CANYONVILLE, Dec. 1.—It has been snowing here since daylight this morning. The ground is covered and it still continues snowing without abatement. The storm appears to be quite severe south—the mountains being covered with snow several inches in depth. The telegraph line is down in the Canyon mountains.

SALEM, Dec. 1.—Following a continuous rain storm of nearly three days, came a light fall of snow last night, and although the weather was clear early in the morning it commenced snowing about 8 o'clock and has continued up to this time (11 A. M.), with a good prospect of continuance. The river has risen four feet and still rising. The [illegible] left for Harrisburg this morning.

ALBANY, Dec. 1.—The first steamboat of the season arrived here about 1 o'clock this morning. The weather changed last evening from a heavy warm rain to a snow storm. It has been snowing all the forenoon; about two inches fell. The sun made its appearance in the afternoon and now the snow has nearly disappeared. The river is at a good boating stage and still rising fast.

The Municipal Election at Salem.

SALEM, Dec. 1.—The city election passed off quietly, polling a full vote and electing the entire Republican ticket for city officers by the following majorities: Mayor, J. G. Wright, 28; Recorder, James Coffey, 11; Marshal, Joseph A. Baker, 17; Treasurer, J. H. Haas, 19. Five Republican Councilmen elected out of eight.

THE VIRGINIUS.

THE ANTI WAR FEELING.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—It can now be stated with a certainty that the dispatches which have latterly represented the Cabinet as a unit for war have been incorrect. The same is true with regard to those which represented the President as desirous of war. There are at least two members of the Cabinet who do not believe we can make out a legal case against Spain. There has been considerable apprehension here that General Sickles may not bear himself with the caution which the circumstances demand, and that by his manner he may give unnecessary offense at a critical point in our negotiations. Thus far a large majority of the Congressmen who have arrived are opposed to war, and nearly all report that the people in their districts have no desire to return to war taxation and war prices. Commercial men of standing in New York have made strong protests against running the country into war. Altogether there is a much more conservative feeling here on the subject to-night than at any time since the trouble began.

Correspondents say that some of the warlike dispatches sent from Washington to the press have been instigated by officials whose positions ought to place them above the suspicion of desiring to add to the excitement simply to bring themselves into notice. Two very noticeable instances of this kind have occurred during the past week, the principal in each being gentlemen in prominent official positions—the one desiring to have a long interview prepared and telegraphed, on the ground that he had not as yet received proper prominence, and the other on the ground that the duties he was attending to had not received the attention they deserved.

A PROTEST OF JOHN G. WHITTIER.

John G. Whittier writes to Charles Sumner thanking him for his manly and just letter on the Cuban difficulty. It was a word needed. The summary shooting of the passengers of the Virginius, filibusters as they may have been and probably were, is shocking and unjustifiable. So have been the wholesale butcheries in France, both by the Commune and the Government, but in this case no man among us so regrets and deplores the bloody deed as do Castelar and the intelligent Republicans of Spain. If we seize this occasion to strike at them we give direct aid and comfort to the ultramontane popery—to Don Carlos and the cruel priesthood who are fighting against republicanism in Europe. We do indeed in crushing out the republic of Spain commit a parallel to the atrocity in the case of the Roman Republic by the so-called French Republic of 1849. Heaven preserve us from such infamy. I hope and I believe wiser and worthier counsels will prevail, that the only demand of our Government upon Spain shall be for the speedy emancipation of slaves in Cuba and the rights and liberties pertaining to citizens of the Spanish Republic secured to the people of all classes in her dependencies.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—El Cronista, the Spanish organ of this city, contains a variety of fresh correspondence from Cuba. From this it appears that the sixteen men captured on the Virginius, who claimed to be British subjects, and who sought protection from the British Vice Consul, which Burriel refused to acknowledge, were not neglected by the British Consul, who found his efforts to be in vain. The British Commodore at Jamaica took the matter in hand and telegraphed to the Governor of Santiago de Cuba in the following words:

"In the interest of the friendly relations existing between our respective Governments, I beg you to delay the execution of alleged English subjects captured on the Virginius until the Captain of the frigate Niobe can communicate with you. The Niobe leaves to-day for Santiago."

To this request Burriel replied by telegraph as follows:

"I do not possess authority to accede to the petition you send me. The law must be fulfilled. The men who claim to be British subjects were executed without allowing any time for investigation as to the truth or falsity of their claims."

Captain Fry's appeal to the Spanish authorities is published. In it he asks nothing for himself, but all for the crew, many of whom he says were entirely ignorant of the destination of the Virginius when she left Kingston, and there were several equally innocent passengers for whom he pleaded strongly. Captain Fry closes his letter as follows:

"The Consul knows well that I am not pleading for my life. I have not prayed to God for it, nor even to the Blessed Mother. I have neither home nor country. A victim of war and persecution, the waves of adversity have been closed to me to such a point that I have not been able to provide bread for my wife and seven children, who know what it is to be in want for the necessaries of life. My life has been one of suffering, and I look upon what has happened to me as the will of God. It is not for me therefore to ask favors of any one."

The letter of Señor Alfaro to General Burriel, offering to desert the Cuban cause and divulge his secrets, conditioned that his life were spared, is published. In this affair Alfaro is joined by seven other Cubans.

[illegible] THE PRESIDENT.

In a recent interview with a prominent Senator, President Grant is said to have used the following language:

"When the Government makes every preparation for an aggressive or defensive policy, fits out its navy and does everything to make its army effective up to the limit of calling for troops, you can put whatever construction you please on such activity. If I were to judge of such movements as a civilian, I should say they were warlike. I do not remember of anything of the kind having been done in this country which was a preface to peace or satisfaction received for our wounded honor. So far I believe our history sustains me in this assertion. If my message to Congress does not convey this idea, it will be because I forget the words in which to express it."

[illegible] TO THE [illegible]

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The Daily Telegraph couples the Virginius with the Trent affair, although it fears the ultimatum of the American Government would be fatal to peace. Still it thinks President Castelar, in view of the internal troubles in Spain, could honorably follow the example of President Lincoln and grant the demands of the United States.

BAZAINE AND HIS ACCUSERS.

A SUMMING UP OF THE CHARGES AGAINST HIM—BAZAINE'S BEAUTIFUL WIFE.

[Paris (Oct. 30) Cor. of the New York Times.]

The interrogatory of Marshal Bazaine has terminated, and to-day the examination of the witnesses will begin, probably by M. De Keratry. So far as my judgment goes, without having given the long and comparative study to the evidence which would be necessary to arrive at a correct conclusion, I should say that the only strong points now against the marshal are: 1. Not having made his attacks upon the enemy with sufficient vigor (in which all the corps commanders must share the responsibility). 2. His denial that he received on the 23d MacMahon's dispatch announcing the march to the relief of Metz. (The marshal says that he received it on the 30th only, and knew nothing of the march before, while Col. Lewel, his enemy, says that he saw it in the marshal's hand on the 23d.) 3. For not burning the flags and eagles. (It is proven that the marshal did give orders to have them burned, but the order was so badly executed that only half were destroyed when the Germans heard of it. A note was then sent to Bazaine to say that unless this was stopped at once the convention just signed would be annulled. The flags which had not been burned by the marshal's orders had then to be given up.) 4. For not communicating with the government of the 4th of September. (On this point the marshal says that this government had never in any way communicated with him, that he occupied a position of which history offers no parallel, and that having the safety of the army in his hands he was not bound to run after governments formed by street mobs, which had never received the sanction of the people, and never communicated its authority to him.) This is the sum of the evidence, and it is upon the latter point that the shoe pinches. Marshal Bazaine was the last representative of established order in France. He was led to believe that the Germans would not treat with the revolution, and hence regarded his army as the last vestige of constituted authority. He thought that the Germans themselves would want to release his army in order to preserve the country from anarchy and to guarantee the terms of the treaty of peace. I believe Prince Frederick Charles will testify that this was the idea of the moment, but abandoned when the army of the Loire was defeated, and when the revolution appeared to gain a certain foothold in the country. I think that this is a pretty fair gist of the affair thus far, and the efforts of the accusation will be directed toward proving that Bazaine did receive MacMahon's dispatch on the 23d and concealed it, and allowed MacMahon to be defeated in cold blood in order to be, as he supposed, the sole arbiter of the destinies of the country. The military witnesses are generally favorable to the marshal, but of course M. De Keratry and other members of the government of September will lose no chance of insuring his conviction. A large and fashionable crowd now visits the Trianon every day, and among the richly dressed ladies present one sees the leading artistes of the Parisian theatres and the fine flower of the demi monde, who always manage to get tickets for such public ceremonies.

Though deeply affected by the suspense she is now undergoing, the wife of Marshal Bazaine does not lose courage. She deems her husband entirely innocent, and asserts that she has never for a moment doubted that the marshal will be honorably acquitted. This lady, now about 25 years of age, is very handsome—very firmly devoted to her husband, and very boldly acts in his defense whenever the opportunity presents itself. She is a Mexican by birth, and brought the marshal an enormous fortune. She now resides at Versailles with her two children in a very retired manner, her only occupation being to visit the marshal and make daily appeals to all such persons as she supposes may be of service to him. She makes so light of the charges against him as to greatly encourage the marshal, who, for some time after her visit, writes less and remains more quiet. She talks to the marshal of his approaching acquittal—of their immediate departure for Pau—a watering place the Marechale much likes—and assures him that, in her society and that of his children, he will forget the grief and suspense of the trial and its captivity. La Marechale is very pious. She is a devoted Catholic and insists upon holding religious converse with her husband very frequently. Since the commencement of the trial Mme. la Marechale has very diligently read all the newspapers and endeavors to keep from the light of her husband all comments on the part of the press she thinks would be likely to discourage or wound him.

A modest Bostonian writes to the Alta on the subject of the Virginius, concluding his letter with these words:

"It has been proposed to hold a mass meeting here in Boston to express the feeling of Massachusetts in this matter. As the part of wisdom let this meeting be held under the auspices of Republicans, but let it have the genuine anti-slavery sentiment. It would be a most fitting occasion for us to call upon Sumner to preside, and to assure him that the great body of his fellow citizens still recognize him as their leader when the question is one not of unfortunate personal grievances, but is of national importance. In some matters we look to New York to take the initiative, but when the freedom of millions is at stake Massachusetts can furnish the orators and Faneuil Hall afford the proper place for such a gathering as shall prescribe the national policy."

A LAWYER WITH A DELICATE STOMACH.—From a New York exchange we take the following account of a little incident which occurred during the Tweed trial:

The jury retired at 9 o'clock, the charge having lasted over three hours.

Mr. Allen (Assistant District Attorney)—Will you [illegible] a motion.

Mr. Graham—We know the character of the motion about to be made by what we know of the person making it. Let us first take our exception, and then let me get away before I witness the sickening spectacle and the cannibalism of counsel. Mr. Tweed will remain in court.

Subsequently Mr. Allen stated that the motion he was about to make had been obviated by an arrangement between himself and counsel.

A New York dispatch of Nov. 24th says:

An infernal machine was sent to Controller Green this afternoon. It consisted of a box eight inches long and four wide, filled with powder and metallic cartridges. The box was intended to be opened from the top by striking the cover, under which was placed matches which would be lit by sand paper pasted on the lock. Powder was loosely distributed so that a match would ignite it. Green suspected foul play, however, and opened the box from the bottom. The address on the box was made up of printed letters taken from some newspaper or printed document. The affair created great excitement around the City Hall. The suspicious address probably saved Green's life.

Smith; Chief Clerk, J. A. Sterling; Sergeant at Arms, James Weaver. Several bills have already been before the House, among which was one striking the word "male" from the State Constitution.

The Dallas Republican says: "There has been a good deal of talk about Hipple, alias Mitchell, but the lawyers in Court this week took a practical view of the case. In the case of Scovill vs. Barney, which has been in Court for the last two years, Mitchell acted as one of Scovill's attorneys, and Scovill had given Mitchell a mortgage on the place in dispute to secure his fee and eighteen hundred dollars which was loaned to Scovill to enable him to prosecute the suit. Mitchell brought suit at this term of Court to foreclose the mortgage. Boise, Barney's attorney, moved this plea in abatement, that the plaintiff's name at the time the mortgage was given was not Mitchell but Hipple. Bronaugh, counsel for plaintiff, was disposed to regard it as a joke, but Judge Boise soon convinced him that he was in earnest by the production of the proper authority. The plea was sustained."

The Baker City Democrat of the 25th ult. says: "The work now going on upon the grounds of the Episcopal Church gives that part of our city a lively appearance. Monday of last week the Bishop laid the Corner Stone, and now workmen are engaged upon the foundation of the church, the enclosing fence and a small house which Dr. Nevius is putting up for an office or study, and which will be the vestry room of the future church. We understand that Bishop Morris left La Grande on Thursday for Walla Walla after laying corner stones for churches in Union and at Forest Cove. These make four church buildings begun in this valley and Grande Ronde at this visitation. In the four places mentioned eighteen persons were confirmed. The Episcopal Church leaves good work behind it wherever it goes, whether it builds in wood and stone or in Christian character, and we are glad to see it entering upon permanent possessions in our midst."

YOUNG GOODWIN'S MURDERERS.

One of the men arrested for the murder of young Goodwin, of Pendleton, at Fort Hall, on the 17th of October, has made a confession of his participation in the deed. The names of the murderers are Peter Matz and James Gash. The New Northwest, published at Deer Lodge, Montana, says:

Since his arrest Matz has made a confession to his father and the officers, stating that while camped one night they carried into effect a plan to rob Goodwin, who they supposed had a large amount of money in his possession; that he shot Goodwin once and then fled into the willows; that while there he heard two more shots fired, and that Gash then called him out; that he found Goodwin dead, and after robbing him of $300, all the money he had—they dragged the body to the river and threw it in. He does not know whether Goodwin died from the shot he fired or from the two shots fired by Gash. Matz also says the entire benefit he has derived from the stealing of horses and the murder altogether was some money and a suit of clothes. It appears that Matz was working on a farm in Bitter Root Valley last summer, when Gash came and enticed him away to engage in these lawless acts. There is some compassion for Matz, while the feeling is almost directed to the other, but a general determination and even threats of summary vengeance upon Gash. It is also probable that unless the authorities of Idaho speedily make requisition for the prisoners they will be held in Missoula for the horse stealing. Some two or three years ago the officers of Missoula county arrested and held four criminals for crimes committed in Idaho, and that Territory permitted Missoula county to pay some twelve or fourteen hundred dollars expenses for the same, which was never refunded. So the Missoulians very naturally do not feel under any obligations to extend more than legal courtesy in the affair.

A small boat made from timber of the Polaris will be placed in the Smithsonian Institute.

THE TERRITORIES.

Collector Hollister has seized the brewery of Messrs. [illegible] Kunsthler, at Corinne, for violation of the revenue laws.

There is some talk again of starting work on the Seattle coal mines. It would be a blessing to the county and the company as well.

The man who drove the first spike on the Union Pacific Railroad has suicided. Credit Mobilier and cooking the club were too much for him.

At Rawlins, 90 miles of Cheyenne, on the Union Pacific Railroad, snow is reported to be two feet deep and the thermometer has marked 2° below zero.

It is estimated that $1,500,000 have been put in new buildings in Salt Lake this season. One thousand houses of various descriptions have been built with this vast sum.

The Bismarck Tribune of Oct. 29th says: "The ice is very bad in the Missouri river. The Nellie Peck is blockaded at Fort Rice. Think of that ye blessed ones of Oregon."

Rev. McLeod, in his Thanksgiving lecture at Seattle, thanked God for big trees and a rough country, as they kept and drove away the timid, and encouraged and produced strong men and women.

The Denver News gave, a short time ago, an account of a raid of three hundred clergymen on the frontier, capturing their scalps and plunder with them. It meant three hundred Cheyennes.

Thanksgiving day at Seattle was pleasant. Service was held in the Baptist Church, the two Methodist, the Presbyterian and Congregational Churches uniting. An Evangelical Alliance in this sunset land.

The report of the Secretary and Treasurer of the Montana Territorial Fair Association shows the total receipts of the last Fair to have been $5,044 20, and the total expense disbursements were $5,907 89; the net profit on the Fair was $2,163 71. The Association is now in debt only $814 and has property and cash to the amount of $8,889.

At the recent session of the Grand Jury in Deer Lodge, Major Pease, Agent at the Blackfoot Agency, was indicted, among others, for frauds in his office. Inspector Daniels, a few days since, suspended him from the Agency and placed Capt. Dan. W. Buck temporarily in charge. A day or two subsequent to this, Mr. R. F. May, formerly Receiver of the Land Office at Helena, was appointed by the Department as agent. Mr. May is now in the East and will return shortly and take charge.

Zion's Co-operative Institution—a union of church stores, established by the Mormons to break down and freeze out all Gentile dealers in Utah—is said to be insolvent, and the whole affair will doubtless bust up before long. It is further stated that the Deseret National Bank—Church Bank—is carrying $70,000 of the 'Co-op.' paper (about three times the amount on its capital stock allowed by law), and it is not improbable the Comptroller of the Currency will order it wound up. Zion does not appear to be flourishing in a financial point of view.

The Bismarck Tribune of Nov. 18th says: "Bismarck is a favored city, situated as it is in the midst of a most fertile region of country and adjacent to the vast coal beds of the Northwest. The climate, too, is far superior to that of St. Paul, Sioux City or Yankton. While these three places are winter-bound, we are having most delightful weather. The ground is not frozen, no signs or indications of snow storms, no overcoats, no overshoes. We pity the poor mortals around Sioux City, who, while we write in a room without fire, set shivering around red hot stoves. The river is open, no running ice, and no signs of freezing."

Col. D. S. Stanley, commanding the Middle District, Department of Dakota, under date of Fort Sully, Oct. 14th, reports in relation to Custar's fight with the Sioux on the Yellowstone. The Sioux say the Indians lost four killed and two wounded in the two engagements, also 25 ponies either killed or since dead; that one of the wounded had died and that others would probably die. The leaders in the attack were Red Ear's son, a Brule, and the Bull without Hair, a Minneconjou. Red Ear draws rations at the Cheyenne Agency. The Indians engaged were eight or nine hundred strong, with very few Uncpapas. Long Dog, an Uncpapa, went to see Sitting Bull, who refused to join the war party, saying that his promise to Pere de Smet was "medicine," and he would not fight unless attacked.

A TRIPLE MURDER.

The new town of Bismarck was recently the scene of great excitement, the cause of which is thus given in the Tribune, a paper printed at that place, of November 15th:

On Sunday last one Edw. Whalen, known among the sporting fraternity as "Spotty," went to the Point to see Mary Seymour, his paramour, a prostitute of the worst type. He was here joined by a soldier of the Sixth Infantry named King. These two, it appears, had previously quarreled and were in the act of affecting a reconciliation and renewing their friendship when the woman interfered to prevent it, calling down upon her head therefor several not very choice epithets from the soldier. The woman appealed to Spotty to know whether he would let him call her such names, when blows ensued, the soldier getting the advantage of his assailant. At this juncture the woman came running out with a large glass and struck the soldier on the head with it, smashing it into fragments, and knocking the soldier insensible. Spotty, who was thus released from the iron grip of the soldier, jumped to his feet and ran into a saloon near by and obtained his revolver and followed the soldier into another saloon and shot him dead. After committing this deed the murderer came to this city and walked the streets arm in arm with the Sheriff of the county as unconcernedly as though he had not committed a crime which made him amenable to the laws of Dakota Territory.

The sad sequel to the bloody tragedy of Sunday yet remains to be told. On Monday a party of the comrades of the dead soldier, thinking our civil authorities impotent or unwilling to act, crossed over the river armed to the teeth, and proceeded to search the places where Whalen was known to frequent, but were stopped in the midst of their search by the commanding officer of Camp Hancock, who ordered them to return to their camp over the river. Late the same night they recrossed the river, entered the city, and surrounded the notorious dance house of O'Neill & Mullen on Fourth street, and demanded admittance. Dave Mullen, known along the line of the N. P. as a desperado of the worst type, appeared at the door, and whether any words passed between the parties or not we cannot learn, but at any rate shots were exchanged between the parties, a pistol ball from the building piercing a soldier named Dalton through the heart, and a rifle ball from the guns of the soldiers striking Mullen above the left eye, passing through the brain, killing him instantly. Another man, by the name of Dennis Manihan, employed by O'Neill & Mullen, was struck on the side of the head by a rifle ball, inflicting a quite severe but not necessarily dangerous wound. The soldiers, after killing Mullen, immediately withdrew to their camp without further molesting either the persons or property of our citizens.

It has long been patent to observant citizens that trouble was brewing between the soldiers and the keepers of several gin mills in this city, and we fear, from the threats made, that we are not yet at the end of it.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria is talking up a public market.

A resident of Esquimalt lost two toes, one off each foot, last week by an accident.

A Victoria firm has the contract to supply all the British ships of war on the Pacific coast with coal.

Capt. H. B. Good has been promoted to the position of Collector of Internal Revenue for the Division of British Columbia.

Since the departure of the flagship, business at Esquimalt has become woefully dull and the Dry Dock question is being agitated again.

The following amounts were shipped from Victoria to San Francisco last week: Bank British North America, $39,440; Bank British Columbia, $20,285 30; F. Garesche, $30,731 91; Total, $90,457 57.

A few evenings ago a whisky row occurred in a rancherie above New Westminster, in the course of which offensive weapons were freely used, one redskin being badly wounded in the melee. Six of the "braves" were marched off to prison.

The Chilliwhack river has been increasing in volume during the past two or three years, and the opinion of the aborigines is that it is about to attain its ancient dimensions and resume its former course through Kultus Lake country and into Sumas Lake.

A large number of workmen are employed in making alterations, etc., to the Royal Naval Hospital at Esquimalt. One man, while sinking a well, had a narrow escape from death; a bucket of gravel weighing 600 pounds fell down the shaft, and in its descent grazed his head and knocked off his hat.

JAY COOKE & CO. ADJUDGED BANKRUPTS.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—In the United States District Court, this morning, Judge Cadwalader granted the petition of sundry creditors of Jay Cooke & Co., asking an adjudication in bankruptcy, and appointed J. Gillingham Fell receiver. The Judge instructed him that the further proceedings under the decree should be had under the forty-third section of the Bankrupt Act, which authorizes the appointment by creditors of a trustee and committee of creditors to administer the estate. Mr. Bullitt, on behalf of the firm, urged that the plan heretofore presented by the defendants had received the signature of seventy-three per cent. of their creditors, and that other signatures were being daily added to the list, and asked for time in view of these facts. The Court did not deem this sufficient answer.

A NEW EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—A Louisville (Ky.) dispatch of Nov. 26th says:

Bishop Cummins has issued a circular letter addressed to clergymen and laymen, who are, or who may have been, members of the Protestant Episcopal Church, informing them that on Tuesday, the 2d day of December, a meeting will be held at Association Hall, in the city of New York, to organize an Episcopal Church on the basis of the prayer-book of 1785. He especially states that the meeting is to organize and not to discuss the expediency of organizing such a Church.

In Victor Hugo's new play, "Marie Tudor," one of the characters is made to say: "You should never remind a man whose hair is white and whose face is wrinkled, of his politics at twenty, or of the woman he loved then."

TUESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 2, 1[illegible]

THE CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION.

It is very much to be regretted that the habits of public men and the experiences of the people combine to make everybody suspicious of fraud nowadays, whenever a scheme involving the expenditure of large sums of money is up for discussion. We say it is unfortunate, but we do not wish to say that the people are unwarrantably suspicious. There is something to be said in justification of this spirit of distrust, but it can be safely said, at the same time, that whenever the people are inclined to remove the cause the effects will disappear. But so long as men of proven dishonesty are sustained in power and position by public opinion, just so long will this skepticism endure. We have been reminded, most forcibly, of this thing by noticing from time to time in our Eastern exchanges a disposition to treat the scheme for a Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia as a gigantic money making affair. At first, the New York papers evinced a spirit of jealousy which came, plainly enough, from local pride, however skillfully they may have thought to conceal it. But the charges against the management of the Centennial have assumed a definite shape. It may be alleged that the accusations point to petty and trifling affairs. On the other hand, it is said that the matters complained of are straws which indicate pretty clearly the direction of the main idea. Here, for instance, we find the Washington Chronicle editorially censuring "the selfish conduct of the members of the board appointed to decide on the design of a building for the Exposition." It is alleged that architects throughout the country were invited to compete for four prizes, of four, three, two, and one thousand dollars, offered for the best plan. The Chronicle gives the result:

> It strangely happened that out of upward of 20 competitors all four of the successful architects were residents of the City of Brotherly Love. And although they were permitted, it is presumed, to coolly pocket as a reward of wonderful skill $10,000 of the people's money, contributed to aid in defraying the necessary expenses of preparing for this so-called national show, we are informed through the public journals that no one of these plans was finally adopted. But, as Philadelphia pocketed all the prize-money, the main point in "the design" was gained.

We have selected the above from a mass of minor charges, because it is specific and to the point. That there are men and communities mean enough to trade on the patriotism of the country, has been sufficiently proven within the last ten years. We do not like to believe that Philadelphia has it in her mind to entice the nation by holding out her relics, and symbols of our liberty, simply to fleece guileless patriots.

We are in receipt of an address delivered by Governor Pollock, of Philadelphia, before a large audience in San Francisco, on the 2nd ult. Alluding to the general charge that the people of his city were [illegible] he said:

> We do not claim to be more independent of selfishness than other people; but the idea of [illegible] with this National [illegible] and I pledge you [illegible] that there is not a heart nor a [illegible] in the city of Philadelphia, which you [illegible], as I hope you will, on the [illegible] of July 1876, that will not be open to receive you—for every hand will be stretched [illegible] — every hand, on your arrival there as Californians and as American citizens; [Applause]; not to rob and plunder [illegible] to you to their hearts and homes; and if the hotels are not wide [illegible] houses [illegible] and entertain you; and when you go from us you will say, not that [illegible] robbers and plunderers, but that [illegible] pretty decent City of Quakers [illegible]

If this [illegible] of hospitable intentions [illegible] reciprocated in every part of the Union, the success of Philadelphia's [illegible] plans for the entertainment of the nations will be assured. But if, on the other hand, the hostile feeling aroused by exhibitions such as we have quoted, be not removed [illegible] Centennial celebration in the City of Brotherly Love will end in a grand row.

By way of quieting this growing dis[illegible] the Yankee nation is invited to a grand tea party to be held on the 16th of December [illegible] the [illegible] of that other little tea party held in Boston harbor a century ago. Governor Pollock thus felicitously alluded to this proposition:

> The century has passed. To-day China and Japan [illegible] their tea to San Francisco. San Francisco sends it across the Continent to New York. New York takes it up and sends it to England, and there they pay the tax we would not pay a century ago.

And who [illegible] that Philadelphia may not soothe the grumblers into peace through the subtle agency of this mild narcotic?

THE NEW YORK PRESS ON THE TWEED VERDICT.

New York journals comment on the Tweed verdict with considerable unanimity of sentiment. The Times says:

> Few struggles looked more hopeless or discouraging than that which we began against Tweed and his associates in 1870. We do not take any credit to ourselves that it has triumphed, for the people caused it to triumph—the only difficulty was to induce them to come out and protect their rights. At that time we were allowed to have the field entirely to ourselves, for a forlorn hope is generally not overwhelmed with volunteers. All sorts of persons have claimed the honors of the victory since, from eminent lawyers to pictorial lecturers, and there is no harm in that. Tweed's conviction proves that cheating, swindling, and lying are not the qualities which lead to permanent success in this life, and that is a lesson (elementary as it may seem) by no means unnecessary in the present age.

The Tribune characterizes it as "the most important and righteous verdict ever given by an American jury." It says that "its momentous importance and incalculable advantage are shown by two facts. All decent people desired it, though it [illegible] the only just verdict possible, and none expected it. Never has the jury system been exposed to so severe a test, and the triumphant issue of the experiment is one which will serve for years to come as a powerful argument in favor of [illegible]."

The Herald terms the verdict "A javelin of Justice." It says:

> The verdict nails a criminal to the shame and ignominy which his crime demands—a criminal for whom his friends claimed an immunity from punishment, no matter what his guilt. He was stout and hale and hearty; he had literally fattened on public plunder in person as well as purse. Three years ago he was such a model of a prosperous rogue that men shook their heads in doubt and said, with [illegible] upon him, that bold, unblushing dishonesty was the best policy in this world, at least. It was told in corner groggeries that he had been a poor chairmaker once; that, since he had given up earning his bread honestly, millions had rolled in upon him. What young man in our city, fired with this startling example to the hasty pursuit of wealth, could settle down contentedly to his daily round of poorly paid toil? Dishonored, convicted, he (Tweed) stood in court yesterday amid the dismayed remnants of his once victorious band. "A javelin of law has pierced him," said his counsel piteously. It was a javelin of justice and a stout one, driven with mighty force, which went whizzing through the armor of stolen money he had on, and struck to earth so great and yet so vulgar a leader, in the golden age of fraud. Well may we congratulate the twelve "good men and true" who drove that javelin home.

Geneva is devising plans for the outlay of the Duke of Brunswick's magnificent bequest. The Administrative Council report the sum total of their inventory as £750,000, besides the property in America and Germany, which has not yet been valued. Among the items we notice one of 5,000 uniforms, which the late Duke had in his possession for the last forty-two years. The diamonds and jewelry are placed at 1,851,284 francs. The Duke did not escape the ravages of the American railway sharps. He invested £75,000 in United States railway bonds, but the original company transferred its franchise, and the new company now offers to pay the bondholders 50 cents on the dollar. A correspondent of the London Daily Standard says that when the estate has been fully realized, it is probable the city of Geneva will have £1,000,000 at its disposal.

In connection with the gossip about the Chief-Justiceship, a Washington correspondent relates a story told by a personal friend of the President, to the effect that the Chief-Justiceship is the third great appointment tendered to and declined by Senator Conkling. The first was the English mission, the second was the Secretaryship of State, shortly before Mr. Conkling's re-election to the Senate, and, lastly, the judicial ermine. The Senator's pertinacious refusal of honors gives color to the common report that he is an ardent aspirant for the Presidency, to succeed General Grant in 1876.

The New York Herald of Nov. 20th contains a dispatch from Washington in which it is stated that Senator Conkling, after consultation with his political friends in New York, has decided to decline the Chief Justiceship which was privately offered to him by the President. It is further stated that in Washington circles the belief prevails that one of the present Justices of the Supreme bench—probably Justice Miller—will be chosen as Chase's successor.

Shortly after the recent illness of John Hickman, Washington Townsend called on him, and wishing to encourage him, remarked: "Well, Hickman, I can't see that your appearance need trouble you." "No, Townsend," replied the invalid, "it doesn't; it is my disappearance that troubles me."

I TAKE THIS METHOD OF INFORMING MY many patrons in the past and the public generally that I have disposed of my entire business interests in this city as Architect, to Messrs. KRUMBEIN & GILBERT, who will arrange for the completion of unfinished work, and whom I take pleasure in recommending to those desiring the services of an Architect. W. W. PIPER.

Having enlarged our business we are fully prepared to furnish at short notice,

Perspectives, Plans, Elevations, Detail Drawings, and estimates of all classes of ARCHITECTURAL and MECHANICAL WORK, and to superintend the construction of the same.

A COURSE OF
SIX LECTURES
Will be given at the
FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH,
Cor. Second and Jefferson Streets.

LECTURERS:

Rev. THOS. CONDON	Forest Grove	Dec. 3.
W. B. GILBERT, Esq.	Portland	Dec. 10.
Rev. S. H. MARSH, D. D.	Forest Grove	Dec. 17.
SYL. C. SIMPSON, Esq.	Salem	Dec. 23.
Rev. D. E. NESBIT	Corvallis	Dec. 30.
Hon. MATTHEW P. DEADY	Portland	Jan. 7.

Tickets for Single Lecture	50 cts.
" " Course, to admit one	$2 00
" " " " Lady and Gentleman	$3 00

To be had at J. A. Steel & Co.'s store, or of the members of the Congregational Church.

The first Lecture of the Course will be delivered by the Rev. THOS. CONDON, of Forest Grove, on Wednesday Evening, Dec. 3, 1873,

At 7½ o'clock.

SUBJECT—"Teeth and Claws in the Natural World, and their Lessons."

The mere announcement of a lecture by Mr Condon is sufficient to insure a full house. To him the Strata of the Earth are the leaves of the Book of Creation, and the turning over of each succeeding leaf reveals treasures of knowledge which he delights to interpret to his audiences in terms easily understood by all. His present lecture is an entirely new one, and comprises the results of his last summer's explorations.

It will be illustrated with many new and valuable specimens gathered from the rich Columbia Basin.

CITY.

LOVE OR [illegible].—A joke which is not a joke [illegible] a certain young gentleman who works at the plumbing and gas fitting business and is also well known in this city [illegible] most obvious reasons we suppress [illegible] This young man left Port[land] [illegible] for the purpose of getting married [illegible] charming creature residing not [illegible] miles from Buena Vista, Polk county [illegible] some and to us inexplicable reason [illegible] would be groom was obliged [illegible] pilgrimage to Lafayette before the [illegible] would be celebrated in due form [illegible] be compelled to go out of the co[unty] [illegible] an a license does not ap[pear] [illegible] was. He called at the Clerk's office and [illegible] finishing the required proof and [illegible] medium, procured the very necessary [illegible] Contemplating the rash and fearful [illegible] he was on the eve of taking and considering he had forever signed away his personal liberty this young man was wrought up to a high state of perturbation. In fact he was in such a condition of trepidation that he scarcely knew just what he was about. He threw down the piece of coin on the Clerk's desk and walked out forgetting to take away the license. The Clerk did not observe the document until the young man and his friend were gone. The thought never occurred to the young man that he had forgotten to bring the license until he was brought [illegible] bride and the document was called for a few minutes before the nuptials were to take place. Judge of his consternation when on rifling his pockets no license was to be found. However things had progressed too far to [illegible] and so the young man's friend testified that the license had been duly issued and all that, and so the magistrate drove ahead with the ceremony and the couple were made one and happy at the same moment. Subsequently the license was forwarded to the couple and now all is moving as smooth as a marriage bell.

DEATH OF AN ACTOR.—In the San Francisco Call of the 29th ult we observe the following paragraph: Mr Ellerton, a well known professional who came to this city from Australia several years ago died on Monday evening last at the American Exchange Hotel in solitude and in want. Money is needed for the expenses of interment. Gentlemen of the sock and buskin look to the body of your fellow player, and [illegible] well bestowed. Mr Ellerton is well known in Portland, where he resided for over a year. He came here more than three years ago under engagement of J W Carter who was at one time lessee of Oro Fino Theater. He afterwards played several seasons with Mr Bates here. About two years ago Mr Ellerton left here since which time he has been strolling about through Nevada and California playing in various theatrical companies. He was regarded as a very fair stock actor of the old English school. At the time of his death he was aged about 40 years. We learn with regret of the reported death by suicide of Mr W R Fortier. The report came directly that he destroyed his life, a short time since at Pioche in Nevada while in a fit of despondency. As there has been no mention of the fact in the dispatches we are constrained to believe the rumor without foundation. In looking back for a few years over the career of the numerous actors who have appeared at various times before this public, we find that death has played a conspicuous hand in thinning the ranks. Among those belonging to the "profession"—ring and stage—who have visited Portland but have passed from these earthly scenes to the great unknown we chronicle the names of Pierpont Thayer, J F Beatty, Ralph Phelps, Mrs Mary F Stewart, Wm. Ellerton, Leo Hudson, Aline Le Favre, W R Fortier.

DRAWING ROOM CONCERTS.—This evening the long promised parlor entertainment will take place at the rooms of the Progress Club. The programme will consist of vocal and instrumental music. Among the volunteers we observe the names of ladies and gentlemen who rank high in the local list of amateurs. With the assistance of Carl Bosco, who will introduce several new tricks (and this, by the way is his last appearance, professionally in this city prior to a tour Eastward via San Francisco) the ladies and gentlemen will give a most enjoyable entertainment. The affair the first of a series of similar concerts, is free to all members, who are privileged to invite those friends from abroad who may be visiting the city. An usher will be at the door shortly after 7 o clock whose duty it will be to conduct those attending to seats. The affair promises to be a pleasant one to all concerned.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Yesterday the case of Joseph Hackeny and Charley Baker came up in the Police Court for examination. These are the parties who were engaged in a shooting scrape at Hudson & Eeker's saloon on Sunday evening. Baker, who it appears was not much to blame was fined $5 and costs. Hackeny who did the shooting, was held to await the action of the Grand Jury in the sum of $300. In default he was committed to the County Jail. Young Taylor who was also in the row was examined yesterday before Justice Ryan's Court was bound over to appear in the sum of $100. He furnished the bonds and was released.

PHILOMATHIAN SOCIETY.—This popular Society composed of a number of young gentlemen of the city who have in view the cultivation of literary tastes propose to give an entertainment on Friday evening of the present week. The entertainment will be given at Good Templar Hall and is to consist of music and literary exercises. Admission is free. The public generally and ladies especially are invited to attend. The programme will be published on Thursday.

COURT ADJOURNED.—The Circuit Court adjourned yesterday until next Saturday. Judge Upton in the meantime has a number of cases under advisement which will probably be decided on Saturday. As Supreme Court will meet at Salem next Monday, Circuit Court will adjourn for the term on the last of the present week.

MARRIAGE RECORDS.—For the month of November there were 17 marriage licenses issued from the office of the County Clerk. This is a most decided increase on the number of any previous month. The fact is an encouraging one [illegible] it is generally regarded [illegible] [illegible] of prosperity in any community.

[illegible].—We learn that an entertainment and sociable given by the citizens of Milwaukie on Thanksgiving evening the neat little sum of $82 36 was cleared. The sociable was given for the purpose of raising [illegible] a hall for the public school of that place.

[illegible] SOCIETY.—This society will hold their regular monthly meeting at the office of Messrs [illegible] [illegible]

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE MOBERLY SURVEYING EXPEDITION—DISCOVERY OF THE LEATHER PASS—CHARACTER OF THE COUNTRY, ETC.

Mr John A Hern returned from Kootenai via Victoria on the last steamer and is now in this city. He was one of the surveying party sent out by the Canadian Government to run preliminary lines for the proposed Canadian Pacific Railroad. Mr Hern has been absent from Portland over eighteen months. In a conversation with that gentleman yesterday we obtained a number of interesting particulars connected with the labors, difficulties and dangers of the Moberly party.

This party under charge of Mr Walter Moberly left Wallula about one year and a half ago. There were 150 men in the party including surveyors, axmen, chainmen, packers, guides etc. From Wallula the party headed for the Kootenai country. Arriving in that region after encountering considerable difficulties and undergoing hardships the party halted a few days to rest themselves and animals. When Moberly's party started from Wallula they were provided with 100 000 pounds of necessary supplies and a large number of pack animals. On leaving the Kootenai country the party struck across toward the waters of the extreme upper Columbia. They reached the river in safety and traveled along that stream for about 300 miles. It will be borne in mind that the Columbia is navigable from Fort Colville to Boat Encampment a distance of three hundred and ninety miles with the exception of a portage of six miles. When the party arrived at Boat Encampment they started across the mountains towards the Jasper House which was the initial point agreed upon of starting the survey. From the Encampment to the Jasper House is [illegible] miles. The intervening country is quite rugged in places consisting of a succession of mountains, marshes and small prairies. No trail led over this district of country, and the party were compelled to open one as they went. This was attended with much labor, and required considerable time. Seven miles of trail were cut through heavy underbrush, and temporary corduroy roads were built through many of the marshes. All the supplies had to be packed on mules and horses through this region but about 20 000 pounds had already been consumed leaving 80,000 pounds to transport.

Jasper House was reached at length, and preparations made at once to begin running the preliminary lines. One of the principal objects of the Moberly expedition was to discover a pass through and over the Rocky Mountains. No practical pass had heretofore been discovered and towards the accomplishment of this very desirable object Mr Moberly bent all his tireless energies. Preparations were at length completed and the party left the Jasper House and headed directly for the Saskatchewan country. Preliminary surveys were made north and eastward from the point of starting for the distance of 300 miles. These surveys were extended far beyond the summit of the Rocky Mountains and to within 60 miles of Fort Edmonton on the Missouri. The party halted at a point about 60 miles from the Fort and went into winter quarters. During the winter Fort Edmonton served as a base of supplies for the party and to procure provisions, etc, several trips were made to and fro.

LEATHER PASS DISCOVERED

It was while the party were engaged in running lines east that Mr Moberly discovered the Leather Pass or as it has since been appropriately denominated the "Key to the Rocky Mountains." Mr Hern, who accompanied the expedition in the capacity of chief packer, and had the entire charge of transporting the supplies informs us that at this pass the rugged chain of the Rocky Mountains is apparently severed in twain and its precipitous, and, in many places wholly inaccessible declivities melt down, so to speak to a smooth plain. He states that the mountain range at that point can be easily passed over with a very gentle grade. Far less expense will attend the construction of a road through this gigantic chain of mountains than will be necessary in building it over other regions of equal extent which present a less rugged appearance, and have been regarded as an easier engineering feat to accomplish than scaling the Rockies. Mr Hern regards the discovery of the "Leather Pass" as a very fortunate thing for the Canadian Government, as it will save the company who propose to build the road the outlay of vast sums of money otherwise required.

While Mr Moberly and party were wintering beyond the Rocky Mountains orders were received from Mr Flemming, chief engineer of the company, who resides at Ottawa. Moberly was instructed to go back with his party to the head waters of the Fraser river and complete the partial surveys already made through those regions. Surveying parties had been engaged for several seasons in running lines through the mountains along Fraser river but had never been able to locate a route, or find the established grade.

On receipt of the order Mr Moberly returned with his party to the Jasper House. From there he proceeded down to Moose Lake, and ran a line through to Tejon Pass, on Fraser river. Without much difficulty he succeeded in locating a route and fixing the grade. Having completed all that could be done the present year as the season was far advanced Mr Moberly and his party suspended further operations and came down to Victoria. They left the headwaters of the Fraser on the 13th of October and arrived at Victoria a few weeks ago. Operations will be resumed early next spring when Moberly will start out on another surveying expedition. Before the close of another year it is more than probable that the entire route will be surveyed and located. When this is accomplished the Canadian Government propose to begin work on this great trans-continental thoroughfare at once.

APPEARANCE OF THE COUNTRY

Mr Hern's account of the regions to be traversed by the proposed line of railway, is quite favorable. His description of the Saskatchewan or as it is sometimes called the Red river country is calculated to impress one favorably. This region is of great extent and varied resources. The Saskatchewan country is admirably adapted to agricultural and stock raising purposes. There is nothing in the general formation of these regions which would forbid the supposition of mineral wealth to a greater or less extent. Iron copper coal and even the rare and more precious metals can doubtless be met with if prospected for. The soil is of great depth, richness and wonderfully fertile. Wheat sowed in that country on the virgin glebe attains great height. The soil is so productive that the growth of the grain stalks is very luxuriant which shoot up rankly. On account of the exceeding rich soil the nutriment derived from the base of supplies is principally absorbed by the straw and the yield is light and the grain of an inferior character. This appears to be the principal obstacle in the way of raising cereals of all kinds. It is thought when several crops have been raised from the same ground and a portion of the superabundant fertility of the soil exhausted good wheat oats or barley can be produced. Grasses however of all kinds grow with wonderful success and hay can be produced with little or no effort. Bunch grass clothes the whole face of the country [illegible] limited pasturage for any number of horses, cattle or horned stock. This whole region consists of a succession of prairies, undulating uplands low ranges of hills and marshes. One serious impediment in the settlement of the country is the scarcity of building timber. There is comparatively but little timber scattered sparsely along the range of hill and water courses. It is generally of a fir species and of small stunted growth.

Notwithstanding the [illegible] the winters are reported quite [illegible] [illegible] during the winter months [illegible] the snow does not descend in large quantities nor remain on the ground any great length [illegible] [illegible] more feelings of apprehension [illegible] in the breasts of these savages. They maintain the most peaceable relations with the scattering settlements and [illegible] tries [illegible] with the trapper and trader who may chance [illegible] through their territory.

SETTLEMENTS

Few settlers have as yet located along the projected line of the Canadian Pacific Railroad but the great tide of immigration will begin to flow in that direction when the Government commences active operations. It [illegible] confidently anticipated that the hoarse rumbling of the iron horse and his shrill scream will startle the [illegible] solitudes over which the silence of Nature has so long reigned without a rival. Mr Hern thinks a great future awaits that country which only requires the magic touch of railroad and telegraph progress to evoke and develop [illegible]

Freights will be received for Corvallis and intermediate points by the Oregon Steamship Company from and after date.

The Willamette Transportation Co's boat E. N. Cooke will leave Portland on Wednesday morning, Dec. 3d at 6 o clock for Corvallis and intermediate points.

The O S N Co announce [illegible] [illegible] this morning some important changes in the time of the arrival and departure of their boats. The public should not fail to read the notice.

Prof Cardinell has just opened his dancing school again. Those who desire to join the first class should be in attendance at the hall promptly this evening at 7 30 o clock.

Most ladies when they lose their pet birds by death throw the lifeless remains away when the skill of the taxidermist might be called in and the little form made into a thing of lasting beauty. A case of stuffed birds for the parlor or stuffed animals for the hall forms a very fine ornament. The Oregon Museum fixes these things up in the best manner.

The Home.—There is no place like the Home says Traver who is out again in a card to the public. Well we won't say much about it. If advertising don't bring customers to him then it is no use trying to push things. He advertises and a rich return is the sure result. Go and see the Home by all means. Christmas and New Years is coming you know.

AMUSEMENTS.

Mr J H Church agent and manager has effected arrangements for two concerts in this city by Madame Stevenson assisted by Master McKenzie and other competent talent. The concerts will be given on Wednesday and Friday evenings of the present week at Masonic Hall. A splendid programme will be offered on these evenings.

FIREMANS' ELECTION

Pursuant to the usual notice the annual election held by the firemen of the city came off yesterday. One Chief Engineer and two Assistants were to be elected to serve for the ensuing year, the officers to formally enter upon their duties on the 1st of January. There being really but one candidate in the field for the office of Chief Engineer the election did not elicit that degree of interest and excitement which usually attend such occasions. The result appeared to be anticipated with an unmistakable certainty and generally acquiesced in. Everything passed off smoothly and with the best possible state of feeling among the several candidates and their respective friends. Now that the election is over there appears to remain no bitterness of feeling. We hear but few if any expressions of disappointment all appearing satisfied with results. The following is the vote

Bruch's majority [illegible]

FOR ASSISTANTS

W S Chapman
A C Murray

H Lamb
A J Craig
S Wolf

Whole No of votes cast for Assistants
Chapman's majority over [illegible]

According to the above vote Wm O Bruch is elected Chief Engineer of the Portland Fire Department for the ensuing year commencing with Jan 1 1874. W S Chapman First Assistant, A C Murray Second Assistant.

So certain was it that Mr Bruch had been elected by an overwhelming majority that all the fire bells of the city began to discourse their brazen music as quick as the polls were closed. Their clangorous and discordant rejoicings were prolonged during the time the votes were being counted, and for some time after the results were known and announced. The official vote signed by the judges of the election Messrs J H Lyon, B Z Holmes and R S M Leran was sealed up.

The Board of Fire Delegates will hold their regular monthly meeting next Saturday evening. At that meeting the official vote will be opened canvassed and the above named gentlemen declared duly elected for the coming year.

PUT YOURSELF IN HIS PLACE

It's a very good rule in all things of life,
When judging a friend or brother,
Not to look at the question alone on one side
But always turn to the other
We are apt to be selfish [illegible]
[illegible] leading me
And so to be right ere you condemn a man
Just put yourself in his place

It is very hard to [illegible]
The [illegible] may [illegible]
How much he has struggled [illegible]
How honestly tried to live
How much he [illegible]
Has the wrong he was forced to embrace
[illegible] in these things to a way
[illegible] yourself in his place

There are many [illegible] shame
Who blamed [illegible] before God
[illegible]
And made to pass under the rod
Whose soul is sustained by the thought of a sin
Who will yet find saving grace
And [illegible] praised when [illegible]
If [illegible] put yourself in his place.

POOR BOSS

Sympathetic Tears and Pity for the Fallen Chief

HOW THE DEAL [illegible] WAS PUT WHERE HE CAN DO THE LEAST HARM—AN AGONIZING SCENE—GRAHAM GIVES WAY TO HIS EMOTIONS AND SHOWS HIS LITTLE WHITE HANDKERCHIEF

NEW YORK, Nov 22.—Mr Graham began the argument on a motion for arrest of judgment holding that the Act of the Legislature taking the [illegible] the Board of Supervisors and creating a Board of Audit of which Tweed was a member, was unconstitutional. Hence his client was not liable for acts committed under an unconstitutional Act. This and all [illegible] points of Mr Graham were overruled by the Court when he concluded his address, which was after recess.

Tremaine then moved that the prisoner be sentenced on each separate count subject only to such modifications as the Judge in his clemency might make. Graham struggled to avert the penalty asked for and failing, gave way to his emotions. Tweed himself seemed much affected.

Counsel having concluded their arguments Judge Davis said it would be unmanly in him to seek to evade an apparent conflict between the views expressed on the first trial of the prisoner and those now entertained by the Court. He said he entered upon the present trial holding the views entertained at the first trial—that the prisoner could only be sentenced if found guilty, to one year's imprisonment and pay a fine of $250—but had changed these views after consulting all accessible authorities on the subject. After stating that by the verdict of the jury the number of convictions were fifty one the Judge said

If any one thinks it is agreeable for me to pass judgment in this case, he is mistaken, for I would gladly have had the acceptance of this position fall on other shoulders. But I shall not allow any feeling of its harshness or severity to prevent the performance of my simple duty. Nevertheless I have the power and in pronouncing judgment I shall endeavor to exercise it so as to temper justice in some degree with mercy. It is deeply to be regretted that the Legislature has not provided a long sentence and punishment to characterize offenses of this kind, in different forms and fixed penalties for each offense when committed in different forms. Public officers who rob the people by appropriating the public moneys, and allow others to do so through their instrumentality or connivance are unfortunately in the state of our laws not to be adjudged felons or punished by imprisonment in the State Prison, but escape under the indictments for misdemeanor, subject for each to pay a penalty of $250 and serve a single year in the penitentiary. If this were a general verdict this would be all that the Court could impose notwithstanding that he took for his own use more than a million dollars in the manner described. If there was a general verdict rendered the Court could only [illegible] through the farcical performance of rendering a judgment of $250 fine and one year's imprisonment for the audacious robbery of the city and county of [illegible] millions of dollars [illegible] which it will exercise, and I hope with prudence and due regard to the interests of the public and the [illegible] people to be made."

Tweed was then ordered to stand up which he did [illegible], and on being asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced, replied almost inaudibly "Nothing."

Then Judge Davis pronounced the sentence. We have published [illegible]

TWEED'S APPEARANCE IN THE COURT-ROOM.

CHICAGO, Nov 28.—A New York special gives the following interesting items relating to Tweed and his sentence:

His face was furrowed with unwonted wrinkles. A small knot of friends, consisting of [illegible] and his [illegible] sat in mournful silence behind him. There was an absence of the small politicians who surrounded him before the conviction. His eldest son looked haggard and careworn. His daughter and a niece [illegible] were in the Court-room. Pity for the fallen chief and his family was expressed by even those who detested his crimes. At one o'clock a recess was taken and Tweed retired to lunch, but ate little trying the delicacies and sighing in distress. He returned to the Court looking feeble, though his face and eyes were red. His son looked sick, and anxiously sat by the side of his father, most of the time with his face buried in his handkerchief or wiping his eyes. The daughter and niece gazed steadily on the old sinner. Judge Davis [illegible] sternly on the condemned culprit while prominent politicians stood stolid behind the fallen man, not one of whose time-serving friends could be seen in Court. Perfect silence reigned when the Judge [illegible]. In answer to the inquiry [illegible] had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced Tweed stood up, [illegible] his hands before him, and gulped out in a low tone, "Nothing." He was completely broken down, and seemed conscious of his guilt. Judge Davis never looked the prisoner straight in the face, and the prisoner never looked at the Judge. The latter blushed bashfully in the face of the crowd as [illegible] to denounce the prisoner for his awful betrayal of public trust. Graham made constant use of his white handkerchief, and Tremaine sat erect, pale and motionless. The rest of the counsel sat with bowed heads. Young Tweed was bent almost to the floor with grief, and the young ladies looked on sympathizingly. The sound of the pencils of a battalion of reporters could be heard while the Judge in low but animated tones rehearsed the history of Tweed's betrayal of the people.

Those who knew Davis well say he was truthful in saying that it was no pleasure to him to pass the sentence but as year after year was piled on in stern accents men shuddered, not having kept track of the Judge's remarks and they whispered, "Tweed is up for life." Politicians who heard the sentence learned an awful lesson. In the middle of the Judge's remarks he intimated a dissent from the opinion of the prosecution that every count should have a separate sentence. Tweed lifted his head and glanced at the Judge inquiringly. The Judge still blushing, went on to explain that he would pass sentence on a reduced number, but it was still over 200. The prisoner dropped his head and sighed as the Judge went on with increasing vehemence to denounce the rapacity of the Ring. Tweed fidgeted uneasily and when the Judge becoming excited once thumped the judicial desk and then paused at the sound he had made Tweed started and looked at the Judge with a frightened and reproachful look. It was a long and fearful ordeal for the prisoner and most of the people in Court pitied him. It was a scene not soon to be forgotten.

At the close of the sentence which doomed him to twelve years imprisonment, Tweed was fairly overcome as the fearful realization burst upon him and the suppressed grief of the son was terrible. The condemned man was then led into an inner room where the leave taking of friends on his part was mechanical, he not seeming to see any one. His son embraced and kissed him and friends whispered to him, seemingly unheard.

Sheriff Brennan, disliking to take personal charge of him delivered Tweed to his deputies. His counsel did all in their power to obtain a stay of execution, but in vain. Tweed was afterward sitting in the Sheriff's office sad, and fallen from a high estate to a felon's fate. The bill of commitment having been made out [illegible] he was conveyed in a carriage, pale, nervous and trembling, to the Tombs and lodged with thieves and murderers.

Wheat in Liverpool by mail [illegible] San Francisco—Average California [illegible]

The weather being now fine [illegible] matters which is looked for in the [illegible] supply as reliable [illegible] true that some of the [illegible] again finding its way back to the regular channel [illegible] day there are [illegible]

New York reports matters working quite steadily as [illegible] though of course there are exceptions [illegible] however, still confident that the grain [illegible] pace with the market and it is in this direction that an accretion of the [illegible] is most desirable.

Our Eastern exchanges while noting the fact of [illegible] more hopefully of affairs in our own country. At Boston [illegible] steadily work up [illegible] more closely to their customers and [illegible] market improvement [illegible] for good [illegible] under its influence [illegible] continue to show a wide range based on the quality of the paper and other considerations. In New York disturbances are yet taking place occasionally under the constant manipulations of the bulls and bears [illegible] who would not allow the market to become settled were the general tendency of affairs throughout the country much more in the direction of quiet than it is. The financial affairs of Chicago are reported as evincing a most cheering improvement in so far as the bank deposits and balances are concerned although commercial and manufacturing concerns still feel the pressure and complain accordingly.

The statement of the banks of the country for the third week in November reflects the improved condition of affairs, it showing generally [illegible] averages. Eastern banks report $7,000,000 of a reserve, and there is an increase in the amount of currency in circulation among large business firms. The duty of those who have money locked up and stored away—fondly hoping that by this strategy the panic will be prolonged, prices fall still lower and [illegible] be thus obtained in all [illegible] of securities—is to throw their funds upon the market to day [illegible] a fair interest to large manufacturing concerns, thus thousands of poor workmen would retain their positions and find employment during the winter, the crippling of our great manufacturing and producing interests would be prevented [illegible] money be more plentiful and the financial outlook more cheerful than it has been since '183'. Moneyed men owe this duty to society. Many capitalists made their money, amassed their wealth and retired from the business arena independently rich through the employment of labor and the profits resulting therefrom. They therefore can properly estimate the ordeal through which manufacturers are at present passing and the terrible tribulation which has suddenly stricken the employe. They should do all in their power to make sacrifices in order to sustain the men who are giving [illegible] wealth to the country. It behooves those, too, who employ labor to make sacrifices, rather than discharge workmen at this season of the year. This is a time for co-operation. Either interest should be united, working in harmony, until the clouds which hover over every class of manufacturing establishment disappear.

Home Produce Market.

The storms of the past few days have been so severe that [illegible] temporarily checked the volume of business and hence we have but meager grounds for a report in this [illegible]. The Wheat trade is likely to be quite lively before another week as large quantities on the line of the river will be rendered accessible by the rise and buyers will be more ready to take at current rates than before the prospect was good for early transportation. The river steamers will run as far as Corvallis the present week and large amounts of produce for shipment to this point are already offering so that the receipts by that channel are likely to be greatly increased. Wheat buyers here are now offering $2 per cental for average lots. Oats are in demand at 45 cents per bushel for best, 4[illegible] for inferior. Flour firm at our last quoted rates. Feed active and firm. Hay in demand at $12 50 per ton for loose and $15 for baled timothy. Apples are abundant and prices weak. Potatoes rather better sale but unimproved in price. Eggs are dull at 40 cents per dozen. Other products are without change.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Ajax will be due at this port, from San Francisco to-morrow evening.

The bark Powhattan has begun to discharge ballast preparatory to receiving a cargo of wheat for Europe.

The fine ship Cutwater is nearly ready to sail for Liverpool with a [illegible] of wheat and flour.

The Sophie D Manautum and [illegible] are reported to be under charter to load grain at this port.

The schooner Alice Haake is completing her cargo for San Francisco, with lumber from the North Portland mills.

The bark Webfoot is at Astoria ready to go to sea as is also the Windward.

MEDICAL.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco, established in 1854 for the [illegible] of Sexual and [illegible] such as Gonorrhœa, [illegible] Stricture, Syphilis [illegible] Seminal Weakness, [illegible] Skin Diseases, [illegible] and Ulcerated [illegible] successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and others requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and [illegible] returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons of both male and female are there who are suffering under the miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and distorted faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents give a friendly advice and to those who are suffering from any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—not but they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for [illegible] and who is certain to cure them [illegible] accurate cure without mercury or any [illegible]. It is important to those who are [illegible] to those who are interested in the welfare of [illegible] friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, parading their skill [illegible] in a few [illegible] imposing upon the public by the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz.: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confusion of ideas, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and lucky mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men.

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies [illegible] forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DR. GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or [illegible] charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon stating symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn to certificates, [illegible] the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are thimble riggers, shoemakers, news carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus certificates, pretended patients, [illegible] etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he professes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney st., corner Commercial, San Francisco, Postoffice Box 1,957. REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN.
